Part D: Writing Task

The cardinal rule dominating the fashion realm is “thinness”, which is ingeniously revealed in The Devil Wears Prada. These days, there are newspapers, magazines and talk shows on television as well as websites and blogs devoted to people’s agonies with their weights and eating habits. The popularity of teen models has much intensified the pursuit of “thinness” among teenage girls nowadays in Hong Kong. Write an article for the school magazine clarifying the misleading message of “thinness equals beauty”. You should also state the potential dangers of the blind pursuit of thinness, and suggest ways to make one look smart. Give your article a title.
